"I have had an extremely hard time, along with many other bankers in the middle West, and I have personally put over $80,000 into banks in which I have an interest." he added.

Hill was nominated February 1, 1924, to fill the unexpired term of A. D. Lasker. His term expired in June, 1927, but he was given a recess appointment. As an alternative a fine of $1,000 was imposed by Judge Gus A. Schuldt.

Weis was captured, in an automobile laden with 120 gallons of corn whisky, on November 30 at Thirteenth and E streets northwest, after a wild chase at a 50-mile speed through downtown streets. In his wake police counted the wreckage of seven machines which blocked the wild dash for liberty and were crashed into by the rum car. Assistant District Attorney Neudecker appeared for the Government at the trial. Weis, represented by Attorney J. S. Phelan, entered a plea of "not guilty," as Revenue Agent R. F. The decision came in a case selected from several to put the proposition to a test. It was brought by Rosario Gambino and Joseph Lima, who were arrested by State police at Massena, N. Y. The pair asserted that the arrest had been made and their automobile searched, not for a violation of a State law, but "solely for the purpose of aiding the Federal prosecution." It was contended that since the State troopers had no search warrant, the evidence obtained could not be used against them in the Federal courts.

which the Burns operatives made to Ruddy and which he in turn edited and transcribed before presenting them to Day, formed the bulk of the exhibits. Counsel for the respondents reserved until a later date any possible objection they might have to these documents, since they had had no opportunity to examine them.

Such additional evidence as was obtained during the day came mostly in the course of the presentation of the documents, and in the interval that remained after this task had been completed. Ruddy testified that the reports were discussed generally each day when they were presented to Day; that there were complaints on the latter's part due to the time consumed in their preparation, and that as the result of this complaint, the shadowing was not begun until the moon recess each day so that the operatives might have more time to rest and make out their reports.

It was also established on direct examination that Clark was present on two occasions when the reports were discussed by Ruddy and Day. The witness said, however, that Clark did not take part in the discussion, and that he did not know who Clark was until after the mistrial had been ordered.

One such answer evoked a decided legal controversy when Maj. Gordon attempted to show that it was in conflict with something that Ruddy had told the district attorney and Niel Burkinshaw, his assistant, and also contrary to a statement before the grand jury.

Maj. Gordon asked the witness if he had not given the reports to Clark, and

The witness also said that Vietsch's only connection with the case was to bring three lots of $500 to Ruddy under instructions from New York. In response to a question on direct examination, Ruddy testified that the entire investigation here cost between $1.400 and $1,500.

Yesterday's examination of Ruddy by Maj. Gordon was all designed to show the connection between Ruddy and Day. The witness testified, in addition to the specific incident involving Juror Kern, that on other occasions matters covered in the reports were investigated more thoroughly at Day's suggestion. Ruddy stated that identification of automobiles and the shadowing of Lamb, who later proved to be a special assistant attorney general, were done at the request of Day, but said that the latter did not give his reasons for making such requests.

Ruddy also said that he did not at any time make any report to Day over and above those covered in the written Defense's Objections Many.

In opening the cross-examination, Charles A. Douglas, counsel for the Burns respondents, developed the fact Charles A. They objected to the admission of the handwritten original reports on several occasions and to the manner in which Maj, Gordon examined Ruddy.

Justice Siddons in nearly every instance overruled the objections, but made clear that he was prepared to hear arguments as to the sufficiency of the evidence against certain of the respondents not directly involved in the documentary evidence at a later date.

One-contention advanced by Douglas which was not pressed but may form the basis of a later motion was a suggestion that the documents which the Government selzed when the head-quarters of the Burns operatives here was raided were taken without due legal authority.

Maj, Gordon intimated last night that his next witnesses after the cross-examination of Ruddy had been completed might be Dönald Woodward and other Washingtonians with whom Day came in contact while in the city.

Juror Kidwell, whose voluntary statement to the District Attorney furnished a surprise on Friday, would not, he said, be called until later in the week.

When last midnight rolled around
Charles Dillingham's latest production still enthralled a first-night audience in the National Theater. On its first appearance in public, "She's My Baby," starring Beatrice Lillie, registered complete success. There is such a wealth of material it might have run on for though the production as it now stands does need trimming.

Rollicking Story Told.

Guy Bolton, Bert Kalmar, and Harry Ruby-oldtimers and still young in enthusiasm-have furnished a rollicking story molded into a musical setting

There was always a certain smugness in early-day theatrical ventures, a vaunting of talent; usually the fare was poverty-stricken.

Here is a combinatoin of every force in the American theater, with the additional quality of smartness, and clev-erness, and high talent—whatever it might be called. "She's My Baby" comes near being the last word in theatricals of its kind—and its kind is a rarity. Nightingales Sing Joyously.

Nightingales Sing Joyously.

There are song numbers that call loudly for encores; and get repetition by popular acclaim. There are four young ladies billed as the Nightingale Quartet, who sing joyously, and add to the gayety of life. There are delightful touches all round that make for beauty—and there are magic moments that will live long in memory.

Jack Whiting, Nick Long, Jr., and clifford Webb carry their honors easily. An old-timer, Harry Watson, Jr., furnishes the high lights of comedy on the male side—and little Ula Sharon, a dancer superb, steps into an important role. There is great casting here, with no one out of place; so it seems as if every one was ordered by Providence for a particular part.

Whenever the principals run out of material, or breath, a chorus girl steps to the fore and comes off with honorable mention. Then, there is Irene Dunn, of pleasing voice. Others, too, in numbers too long to recount, with Balley and Barnum, banjoist and singer, er, to fill in a spot.

such races at the Erlanger fair grounds at Covington.

The highest court acted in a case brought by Owen P. Smith and others interested in the Erlanger Kennel Club. They had attacked a decision under which betting on dog races was prohibited, although permitted as an accompanyment of the traditional Kentucky sport of horse racing. They contended that the effect of the State court decision was to effectually end dog racing. Without going into the merits of the question, the Supreme Court merely affirmed the decision of the State courts.

Leroy, who won his first prominence as a gag man, will direct the filming of Harold Teen's adventures for First National. Allan Dwan will supervise the production for Robert Kane. The search for a youth to personify Lillums' shelk has narrowed to three: Cleve Moore, who is Colleen Moore's brother; Arthur Lake and Eddie Quillen.

After confiding his first plans for his wedding next Sunday to Edna Murphy, Leroy, who is Hollywood's youngest director, began to feel that one of his bosom friends, Al Green, film executive, had been neglected, so Mervyn nominated Al Green to be best man. What mattered it that Leroy has already picked two other best men: John McCormick, who is Colleen Moore's husband, and George Landy? Father Michael J. Mullins, chaplain of the Catholic Film Guild, is to perform the ceremony.

The young and attractive widow of Charles Emmett Mack, herself a former screen actress (Marion Charles) for D. W. story moided into a musical setting by Richard Rodgers. It comes near being a classic in its own right. The lyrics by Lorenz Hart are as neatily shaped as the old Gilbertian numbers of years ago, so that usic fits the words and words the music.

What there is of the story is smothered to death, although it manages to pop up often enough to give an inkling of what's going on aboard the lugger. Seems that two young fellows want to produce a play—one, the author. The other, his friend, who needs money to back the venture. He can get it only tapping the till of his estate. This can not be done unless he produces a wife and, as it turns out, a baby. So, there you have the farce. The music sings for itself.

Beatrice Lillie, who came over the ocean Lindbergh made famous, brings with her into the Dillingham piece all the verve and nonchalance that took America by storm some three seals the verve and nonchalance that took America by storm some three seasons ago.

Better Now Than Ever.

If anything, Miss Lillie is better now than ever; better because she has a stage background that stands out like the Washington monument on the Mail—a wealth of beauty, and talent, and all the necessary adjuncts to great theatricals. Over and above all this, the fair Beatrice has more opportunity for fun-making than usually is given a star so completely surrounded by talent.

Without being familiar with the facts, Dillingham must have invested a young fortune on his new production. It reeks of riches—elegance, exquisiteness. There is here a picture of the new theater laughing at the old.

INNOVATIONS MARK POLI PERFORMANCE

Opera Is Sung in English and There Is Real Acting; Two Fausts Heard.

President and Mrs. Coolidge headed the distinguished audience which as-sembled at Poll's Theater last night to hear the Washington premierc of the American Opera Company in "Faust" with an all-American cast. The house was crowded to capacity, and many per-sons stood at the back during the opera.

It was a novel presentation of a classic opera in what might be termed ultra modern style. Many innovations and most of them for the better featured the performance. The American tured the performance. The American Opera Company represents the latest operatic development in consistent singing of opera in English in that there are no stars in the company. Every singer in the cast is a trained, accomplished singer, on an equal basis, subject to assignment to any role, the principals ready to sing in the chorus should occasion demand it.

This fact assured an all-round merit in presentation seldom attained in opera, even with the greatest opera companies.

Mrs. Leiter Congratulated. Mrs. Letter Congratulated.
The opera was presented under the general direction of Vladimir Rosing and the aegis of a representative Washington committee headed by Mrs. Joseph Letter, who was the recipient of congratulations for her part in assuring success to the presentation in Washington.

success to the presentation in Washington.

It was decidedly a gala event socially, and many dinner parties preceded the presentation. The American Opera Company is sponsored by the American Society for Opera in English, and many members of that organization and music lovers from other cities were in Washington for the premiere.

It was stated that all the singers, the orchestra, technical and executive staff are Americans. The audience was also reminded in their programs that the American Opera Company is an outgrowth of the organization started in Rochester, N. Y., by George Eastman, who was present last night to witness the production. The artists are all listed in the program in alphabetical order rather than as prima donnas or those cast in leading roles—a fact which makes the company a real democracy of operatic genius. The entire cast is a young one and each and every member brought the enthusiasm of youth to oung one and each and every memb ought the enthusiasm of youth to songs or scenes and the applause at times was really tumultuous.

The first thing that seized the imagination was that real acting as well as singing was in progress. The demands of the drama were not subordinated to the musical side of the opera. Furthermore, the action was rapid, there were no lags of any kind and the rendering of the text in English added rather than detracted from the effect. The enunciation of the singers was a joy, each word stood out distinct like a cameo of song and this fact increased the value of the interpretation.

New settings had been devised for the costuming and mounting were of unusual lavishness and richness and abundant in color.

Then Mephistopheles, as played by deorge Fleming Houston. He was an innovation indeed. A young devil, gay, sallant, beautiful, a miracle of grace, garbed in stunning costumes with touches of red, a streaming red plume in his hat and at times wearing glistening armor jackets. The audience was delighted with him and the applause which greeted him especially for his unique interpretation of the famous "Calf of Gold Song" was great.

Like Chaliapin, whose devil is diabolical and George Baklantoff last week in the Washington National Opera Company's "Faust," last night's Mephistopheles swept all before him and where ever he was was the center of the opera. His voice was a rich basso with emotion playing through it like the sharp edged sword he swung about so freely and so gayly.

Martha Was Well Sung.

The only other feminine principal of last night was Brownie Peebles in the role of Martha, which, while not a very heavy part, was well done by this talented young singer. John Upperman as Wagner, Walter Burke and John Moncrieff as soldiers, deserved honorable mention for their work.

One of the beauties of the opera was the really adequate work of the chorus. The ensemble tone was splendid, a thing of precision and showed unmistakably that the chorus was made up of men and women who had real vocal training and experience. Especially should be mentioned the Kermess Dance, in which the famous waltz song is heard, and the men's chorus in "The Soldier's Song."

BLACKMAIL MAKES PLOT

Mr. Bruce Reynolds, a name comparatively new to the theater, appears in the dual role of producer and author at the Belasco this week, where his "Playing the Game" had its first performance last night. It is described on the program as a modern comedy drama in three acts, and in the advertisements as "a thrilling, mirthful melodrama of New York's 'Roaring Forties.'" It is neither of these, but a diverting vaude-ville sketch written in the crisp, salty argot of the hour and providing a capital role for a young actress of unusual native ability in the person of Miss Irene Homer. #### GRABBING THE YELLOWSTONE

Another attempt is on foot to grab off a sec tion of the Yellowstone National Park by private interests. The coordinating committee on National Parks and Forests of the Departments of Agriculture and of the Interior, after a thorough survey of the situation, had a bill prepared for introduction in the House which proposed to readjust the boundaries of the Yellowstone Park by adding to the area on the southeast a tract which would include the headwaters of the Yellowstone River as well as the Teton mountain range. There was no suggestion in the bill that any portion of the park should be turned over to private parties. Bu' the bill as redrawn by Representative Smith, of Idaho, proposes to "restore to the State of Idaho" about 12 square miles of the southwestern corner of the reservation. which wil then be flooded to form a reservoir for irrigation purposes.

Secretary Work yesterday accorded a public hearing to Representatives rench and Smith, together with some of the other philanthropists of Idaho. They urged approval of their cheme, pointing out that about once every four years there is a dearth of water in Idaho which might be corrected if the public-spirited capitalists who are behind this movement are permitted to establish a reservoir in which they may store water to be sold when the farmers are in need of moisture.

The same old arguments which have been advanced in the past to support the looting of the park were furbished up and presented to Secretary Work.

The reaction of Dr. Work to the pleas of those who would mutilate the Yellowstone 1s not yet known. But it may be stated positively that the ational Park Service is as firmly opposed to the proposed vandalism as It was when the scheme was first presented in Congress.

STARVATION ANNUITIES.

A correspondent calls attention to the starvation payments to Federal annuitants under ex-Isting law. The theory of the Federal retirement law contemplates the elimination of the Inhumanity that would follow the enforced separation of employes without provision for their old age. If the retirement law does not attain this object it is a poor piece of legislation. Employes pay installments of their salaries for the creation of the retirement fund, which on June 30 last amounted to $68,336,760. The amount paid in these installments during the fiscal year ended last June was $24.355,000. while annuities paid amounted to $9,598,000. The fand is steadily increasing, and the Government is not contributing a dollar to it. It is proposed that the law should be amended by providing that no annuity shall exceed $1,200 per annum. To this should be added, "nor less than $600 per annum." The law should favor those retired employes who receive small pay and whose annuity, therefore, is very small. The official report shows that 9,810 retired employes are receiving less than $600 per annum each. One of them receives the magnificent annuity of $2.87 per month.

The total increase of payments on the basis of a minimum of $600 would be about $300,-000 per annum. This would be about 1 per cent of the present income of the retirement fund: As the fund is automatically increasing. without any contribution whatever from the Treasury, it does seem right and proper that the $600 minimum proviso should be enacted into law. No single person can live on less than $50 per month, and yet thousands of retired employes are trying to maintain their families on less than that sum. The spirit of the retirement law should be made effective. Retired employes should be paid minimum annuities of $600 per annum.

CONTINUE THE RADIO COMMISSION

"We will ask of Congress no supplementary radio legislation," said Mr. Pickard, member of the Federal Radio Commission, recently, "We are the bone of contention in Congress, and the bone never says anything."

Nevertheless, Congress will receive numerous proposals for altering the present scheme of radio control. Unless existing law is changed on and after March 15 the Federal Commission will turn over its authority to the Department of Commerce, and will sit thereafter nly as an appellate body for individuals dis satisfied with departmental rulings. A year ago, when the commission was created, it was leved that its work would be completed by this time. Twelve months has not been suffi cient, however. Control of the ether still is in the experimental and formative stage. The aission has made progress, but chaos in the air has not as yet been obviated.

The public, unfortunately, has become impatient, and this feeling is bound to be reflected the Seventieth Congress. Furthermore, numerous broadcasters, whose wave channel rights have been shifted or whose power has en restricted, will bring the matter to the attention of their congressmen. The Seventieth Congress will be critical of the Radio Commis-On the other hand, there exists the feelauthority over radio to the Department of Com nerce at this time, particular in view of the fact that this is a presidential year, when the radio will be utilized to the greatest extent ever known in political campaigning. Democrats are interested in seeing that authority over radio shall remain in an independent commission.

The best solution seems to lie in extension of the life of the commission. Its task is unfinished, yet it has gained through the twelve months it has been in existence a store of knowledge of conditions involved second to that posessed by no other body, and has formulated plans which, if carried through, promise to create a broadcasting structure approaching as near as possible the ideal. Give the commission another year, and improvement is bound to be had. Let it die on March 15, and radio probably will revert to the status it occupied a year ago.

THE O'FALLON CASE.

The decision of the Federal Court for the Eastern District of Missouri in the O'Fallon case is of interest in its bearing upon the railroad valuation question. The majority of the court in this case declined to consider, or to pass upon, the methods of valuation adopted by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the O'Fallon case, or on the correctness of the commission's valuation. The court thus does not determine whether the cost of reproduction should be ascertained by applying the current costs of materials and labor or by applying the cost of such units as they stood in the year 1914 and before.

What the court does hold is that six per cent upon the value of the O'Fallon property, as fixed by the commission, plus one-half of what are termed "excess earnings" for the several years considered, taken together, constitute a fair return upon the value of the property, even as claimed by the carrier.

The court thus sees no necessity for concerning itself with the commission's valuation or with the methods of the commission in reaching its conclusion.

The law provides that the carrier shall receive 6 per cent upon the value of its property held for and used in the service of transportation, plus one-half of what the statute defines as "excess" earnings.

The court apparently does not apply this construction of the law to the O Fallon case. The question to be presented to the Supreme Court will be, what is the true construction of the statute? It will be contended that the Interstate Commerce Commission can not take away from a carrier what Congress says it shall

The O'Fallon case went off upon a question which did not involve the correctness of the commission's methods of valuing the railroad properties or the correctness of the value itself. That question is still undecided.

THE TOY TRADE.

The total expended for toys this season will exceed $250,000,000, or something more than $2 for each man, woman and child in America, including Alaska.

Many millions are invested in the manufacture of toys in this country. In the production of mechanical toys no other country in the world can equal the products of American factories. This is particularly true of electric trains. American sleds are superior to those of other countries, in the mature judgment of his majesty the King of Roumania.

With the outbreak of the war in 1914 the export of toys from Europe was stopped, and it was not until 1920 that the trade was resumed Since then there has been a steady increase of imports of toys of all sorts, and especially dolls, from Germany. The total imports of toys for the first nine months of 1927 were valued at $3,427,316, of which $671,094 represents the import value of dolls. But that is really not the total, because toys are assessed for tariff purposes at 70 per cent of their declared value.

The importer learned, long ago, that all toys are not classified as such by the customs. Tinsel and tree ornaments are not toys, and pay only 55 and 45 per cent duty, while rubber balls for "use in physical exercise," instead of playthings, are taxed only 30 per cent. The voungsters look upon as toys, but are classed as "sporting goods" by the inspectors. The toys that thus escape the maximum duty which have found their way into the United States during the last nine months, if added to the imports upon which duty at the rate of 70 per cent was collected, would increase the total by at least $1,000,000.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF INDUSTRY.

Much water has passed under the bridges since Earl Balfour startled the world by his "Defense of Philosophic Doubt." Through all the years he has been faithful to the studies of his youth, but instead of wasting his fine intellect on mere theories he has applied it to the solution of concrete problems, national and international, social, political, and industrial, that affected, or that now affect the welfare of his country. In this city, on two fateful occasions, he gave a taste of his quality, long to be remembered, which stamped him as eminently practical-minded.

It is, therefore, in keeping with his character that one should find him presiding over the British organization known as the National Institute of Industrial Psychology, and addressing that body at one of its recent meetings on the subject, "How Psychology Enters Into the Institute's Factory Investigations." Starting with the proposition that it must be to the advantage of both the workers and the administration of great or small factories that conditions of work should be such as to lighten labor, inconvenience, and the general incommodity which unhappily too often attaches to daily toil, and thereby increase output to the general advantage of the whole community, he developed the point of its being nevertheless the fact that it was sometimes forgotten that industry's affairs are not merely went on to plead that, in addition to devising the best machines, it was incumbent to consider also, from every point of view, the

That important element had, Earl Balfour claimed, been left too much to itself. The actual comfort and efficiency of the men engaged had hot always been regarded as the business of the employer, or of the State, or even of the man himself. The subject had een regarded as one that, so to speak, looked after itself, and it was not until it broke down that the community at large or individuals of misfortune were to be assisted. Some effort has been made to deal with sickness and the accidents of life, but much more is required. and any further attempts at improvement o the condition of the worker must be based on the knowledge that men have minds as well as bodies, and that therefore the psychological element no less than the physiological one will have to be considered. For example, industrial fatigue may be mental as well as physical. The doctrine expounded by Earl Balfour is part of a great plan to revive British industry -a plan on which the "best minds" have been for some time engaged. It may eventually succeed; if it fails, it will not be for lack of skill or earnestness in its presentation.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

Up to the day in 1925 when Congress sanctioned the acceptance of gifts of money by the Library of Congress the only gift ever received by the library was that known as the Hubbard bequest of $20,000 for additions to the print collections. In 1925 Congress created "The Library of Congress Trust Fund Board," since which time gifts and endowments to the aggregate of more than $2,000,000 have been received.

The first of these gifts was that of Mrs. Frederick Coolidge, for the purpose of building a music auditorium in one of the quadrangles within the building. Mrs. Coolidge added a fund of $500,000 as an endowment for the division of music. Among other large gifts was $75,000 from William Evarts Benjamin, $75,000 for a chair of American history, and a like amount from the Carnegie Corporation for a chair of fine arts.

John D. Rockefeller, ir.'s, gifts total more than $700,000, while that of Joseph Pennell, noted but not yet in hand, will reach $300,000 more, and others have contributed to the fund.

In addition to cash contributions the Library, during the last year, has been the recipient of many collections of great literary and artistic value. Librarian Putnam, in his annual report to Congress, states that "no other library in the world has grown as the Library of Congress."

The establishment of "chairs" is an innovation in libraries. "Chairs" are supposed to be confined to colleges and universities. In the case of the library the "chairs" will not attempt to conduct schools, but will be used to provide a staff of specialists to develop systematically the library's rapidly expanding material and to guide research workers.

One of the most unique, as well as valuable, collections received by the library during the last year was the Houdini collection of books on magic, spiritualism, the occult sciences and psychical research. The collection comprises nearly 5.000 volumes, which when catalogued and made available will doubtless be consulted by hundreds of amateurs anxious to learn the secrets of the black arts.

Fifty-five years ago Ainsworth Spofford, then the librarian, predicted that by the year 1975 the Library of Congress would contain 2,500, 000 volumes. That number has been exceeded by more than a million, and 48 years are still to pass before 1975 is reached. Librarian Putnam, also looking into the future, ventures a prophecy as to the number of volumes that will be stored in the library in 1975. His guess is 10,000,000 printed books by that year.

PRODUCTION OF AIRPLANES

Sherman M. Fairchild, of New York, has announced the merger of seven aviation companies under one holding company, the Fairchild Aviation Corporation of Delaware, with a paid-in capitalization of more than $1,500,-000. The new corporation will undertake a comprehensive manufacturing program, both of planes and motors and will construct its own factories on Long Island, surrounding them with a thoroughly modern flying field.

Aviation promises to surpass the automobile industry in rapidity of development. For years the manufacture of automobiles was carried on in small plants, and a considerable part of the work was done by hand. Airplane construction, so far, has also been largely a hand process. But it is passing into the mass production stage. The airplane should lend tself readily to mass production. Here is a product the cost of which can be reduced only through the application of the most modern and scientific production systems. Heretofore the lack of demand for airplanes has made unnecessary adoption of mass productive methods in their manufacture. The demand, however, is rapidly increasing, and many individuals are using planes instead of automo-

The future holds a marvelous picture. Large companies, specializing in particular types of planes or engines, will turn out thousands of machines a year. There will be sport planes, passenger liners, freight carriers, air yachts and flivvers. Millions of dollars will be invested in the aeronautical industry.

NATURE KNOCKED OUT.

Several days ago a Ne.7 Englander announced that he had developed a "self-regenerating electric motor" which possessed the happy attribute of being able to run itself without assistance from any outside power source whatsoever. Once the device was set in motion, it developed power through a generator, which was led back through a series of rectifying and transforming tubes to feed the motor and keep it going. One of the motors was said to be operating in a foundry. Another was said to be in construction for use in an

Several days later a New Jerseyite announced the invention of a machine by means of which the force of gravity is neutralized. In laboratory experiments the inventor said that he had suspended in mid-air a 50-pound weight as well as a miniature airplane. It is planned to develop the machine commercially, for with it, according to the announcement "flights between New York and Paris can be achieved in five or six hours."

An airplane equipped with a perpetual motion engine, and immune from the force of gravitation, could cruise anywhere for any length of time and at any speed.

Opportunity By ROBERT QUILLEN =

Window Shopping.

YEARS ago there was a land rush in the West. Farmers, clerks and adventurers, men and women, rich and poor, lined up on the prairie and waited for the boom of a cannon. Some were in buggies and wagons, some were astride horses, some were afoot.

When the signal was given, all rushed across the line, and those with the fleetest horses were envied by those who were afoot-for all were agreed that the most desirable land was that farthest from the line where the race began.

The land that was near and little valued because it was easily reached fell to the lot of the unfortunates. It was oil land, And thus success came to those who could not go where opportunity beckoned. A woman who is now one of America's most successful writers found success concealed in a handicap. When she began to write stories she thought true romance the exclusive property of fine gentlemen and beautiful ladies who live in palaces, and because she never had been more than 50 miles from her home and never had seen a nobleman, she thought herself poorly equipped to win fame. Her first experience with editors justified her fears. These gentlemen who hold the keys to the door of fame were not impressed by her imaginary noblemen in imaginary cities saying and doing things that only an immature rustic could imagine. But when the lady despaired of winning fame by writing about things and people foreign to her experience and began to tell stories about her neighbors, success came quickly. She found opportunity on her doorstep. A man who wishes to be a good Samaritan dreams of traveling across an ocean and serving the heathen. "Why go so far?" you ask him.

Brent Refuses to Retire.

Barbour's motion was overruled by Brent, who declared himself compelled by statute to serve on the tribunal, although he "would like to get out of it." He said it would be "cowardly" of him to withdraw when he felt himself without prejudices in the case. Judge Halsey declared the statute "makes it incumbent on Judge Brent to serve, whether he wants to or not."

The constitutional question raised by Barbour challenged the right of Gov. Byrd to designate other circuit judges to sit with Judge Brent and objected to the competency of the judges "upon the grounds that the provisions of section 2988 authorizing the governor to lake such designations in such a case is contrary to the constitution of Virginia and is especially contrary to the provisions of sections. 2007, 2007. (Associated Press.) An imposing group of men discussed the prohibition question yesterday at is contrary to the constitution of virginia and is especially contrary to the prohibition question yesterday at provisions of sections 29, 87, 96, 97, as well as clause 3 of section 63, of the constitution of Virginia.

He argued the Constitution contemplates a Circuit court of one judge only, declaring a court of three judges "wholly foreign to our pian." The arrangement, he declared, has the effect of divesting Judge Brent of power in his own jurisdiction, as the two other judges may overrule him by a majority vote. It is not within the authority of the legislature to divest activative of the legislature to divest activity of the legislature to divest activities in this manner. Barbour held.

Alexandria yesterday scored a legal victory in its fight to annex adjoining county areas, when the tribunal of circuit judges, sitting at Arlington County Courthouse, refused to delay the proceedings, and overruled a verticable bombardment of motions presented by counsel for Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

A surprise was sprung by the county counsel at the outset of the trial, when John S. Barbour challenged the competency of the court to sti in the case, holding unconstitutional the statute authorizing the governor to designate a court of three circuit judges

An exception was noted by Barbour when the motion was overruled, and the out was saked to delay proceedings until application could be made to the State Supreme Court of Appeals for a writ of prohibition. This, too, was denied.

A final attempt of the county counsed and was necessary to complete surveys appraising the value of county properties within the disputed territory. Although Commonwealth Attorney william C. Barbour had held that action in the case had been instituted by the City Council of Alexandria, instead of the City of Alexandria, instead of the City of Alexandria, and the proceedings were therefore improper. Bryant read the articles of the town's incorporation, to show it was incorporated as "The City Council of Alexandria" and not as "The City of Alexandria" and not as "The Cit for the defense presented affidavits of engineers retained by Fairfax and Arlington Counties for surveys and valuation of the territory Alexandria seeks to annex, testifying that surveys were far from complete. Gloth contended this information necessary before defense counsel might even prepare an answer to Alexandria's original plea.

Judge Halsey in overruling the motion, declared the question of valuation need not enter the proceedings until a prima facie case of annexation had been made out by Alexandria. He promised that "ample time" would be allowed the defense for completion of its valuation surveys.

The territory in dispute occupies between 3 and 4 square miles in area containing property possessing an assessed valuation of $4,000,000. Roughly $120,000 a year in revenue from the land in question, is involved, approximately $35,000 of which is received annually from the Potomac Railroad yards. Alexandria seeks to extend its boundaries to Four-Mile Run, on the north; Seminary road on the west, and Cameron Run on the south. # DEMOCRATS AMENI IN HOUSE TAX BILL

Republicans Caught Off Guard but Green Says He Will Nullify Defeat.

ADDS $24,000,000 TO $232,735,000 CUT

Approval Given to Present Normal and Surtax Levies on Individual Incomes.

Catching Republicans off guard. House Democrats succeeded yesterday in amending the revenue bill to ma-terially reduce the tax rate on net cor-poration incomes of $15,000 or less. poration incomes of $15,000 or less.

The proposal was sponsored by Representative Garner, of Texas, senior minority member of the ways and means committee, which drafted the measure. It was opposed by Chairman Green, and the vote, 136 to 132, largely was along party lines.

Except for this thrust, the Democrats made no concerted effort to penetrate the cordon of Republican votes that Green, after his unexpected defeat, kept on the floor to defend provisions

Sporadic Attacks Made.

Throughout the day, however, some Democrats joined with a handful of Republicans in taking sporadic shots at various items in the bill, but these attacks proved futile.

Although the Democrats scored one victory, Green indicated he would seek to nullify it before final vote on the measure, by demanding a record vote on the corporation income amendment. As Republicans have a comfortable majority in the House it was predicted that it would be eliminated before the bill is sent to the Senate.

Further Benefit to Corporations.

The Garner amendment, which Repesentative Chindblom, of Illinois, a kepublican on the committee, estimated rould add $24,000,000 to the $232,735,would add $24,000,000 to the $232,735,000 reduction already proposed by the bill, would grant a further benefit to corporations with a net taxable income of not more than $15,000 as follows:
Instead of the 11½ per cent rate the rate would be 5 per cent on a net taxable income of $7,000 or under; 7 per are more than $12,000, and not more

Continuance of the present normal was approved by the House after the rejection of an amendment by Representative LaGuardia, Republican, New York, to add an additional 30 per cent tax on incomes exceeding $1,500.000.

The present schedule of personal exemptions also was adopted, but not until after the House had turned down amendment by Representative Huds-eth, Democrat, Texas, to increase from $3,500 to $5,000 the exemption allowed heads of families and from $1,500 to neads of families and from $1,500 to $2,000 that for single persons.

The retention of the present regula-tions governing publicity of tax returns also was approved without discussion. This was in contrast to the fight two ears ago when a coalition of Democrats nd independent Republicans endeav-red to revive an old provision which alled for the making public of tax returns.

The provision to make the two per cent reduction in the corporation tax rate apply to payments due next March 15, was adopted without a fight. The Democrats had indicated they would attempt to have reduction apply for the first time to payments due in 1929, but no move in that direction was made.

Control Surplus Crops.

The creation of a Government commission with powers to borrow up to $500,000,000 from the Federal Reserve banks for the maintenance of a revolving fund to market surplus farm productions was proposed today in a bill by Representative Christopherson (Republican), South Dakota.

The commission would be headed by the Secretary of Agriculture, with the Secretaries of Commerce and Labor as vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. It would pay for its loans from the reserve banks out of the proceeds of sales of the surplus products. In an effort to prevent overproduction, the commission would have authority to announce its prices before the planting season. Surplus crops, including wheat, corn, rye, rice, sugar, cotton and wool, would be purchased by the commission. For tobacco, hides, mutton and beef, the commission would name "minimum prices."

Damage Case Hearing Against U.S. Advanced

(Associated Press.)

Millions are at stake in a case advanced by the Supreme Court yesterday for hearing on February 27.

The case was brought by the Boston Sand & Gravel Co. to recover from the Government interest on damages awarded it for losses suffered through a collision of one of its lighters in Boston harbor in 1918 with the naval destroyer Bell. The company contended, as do 282 other claimants with cases now pending, that the Government must pay interest from the date of the loss. The lower Federal courts held otherwise.

What accounts for the immediate success of this speedy new dentifrice? Certainly not the price alone!

While it is true that at 25c, Listerine Tooth Paste accomplishes an average saving of 3 dollars a year per person, over costlier dentifrices, this would not carry it so quickly to a position among the leaders.

It is the combination of outstanding quality, unquestioned results, and a reasonable price, that has done the trick.

Such a price for such a paste is made possible only by ultra-modern methods of manufacture and mass production.

We urge you to try Listerine Tooth Paste. It will be a revelation to you.

Note how white it makes your teeth. How gently it polishes them—yet how speedily. Note too, how cool, sweet, and refreshed your mouth feels long after the brushing is over. Virginia Prosecutor Charges 2 Jealousy Actuated Killing of Mrs. Snipes.

SUICIDE, SAYS DEFENSE

Special to The Washington Post.
Richmond, Va., Dec. 12.—Unraveling of the mystery attending the killing of Mrs. Elsie Holt Snipes early on the morning of November 16 last in this city, will begin tomorrow in Hustings Court, when John W. Faison, charged with shooting the pretty divorcee, is placed on trial.

No special venire has been summoned by Judge W. Kirk Mathews, but it is expected that the jury now in attendance at the regular term, consisting of some 35 eligibles, will be exhausted before additional veniremen are summoned.

Faison told the police Mrs. Snipes shot herself in the head, after he had taken the mortally wounded woman to Stuart Circle Hospital in his own automobile. The Commonwealth charges Faison shot her and that Jealousy over another man was the motive.

Falson shot her and that jealousy over another man was the motive.

Rallying to the support of her husband is Mrs. John W. Falson, mother of his five children, and friends who have raised $1,400 as a defense fund.

Seated near Mr. and Mrs. Falson tomorrow will be Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Holt, of Princeton, N. C., parents of Mrs. Snipes, and Mrs. Raiford Oliver, of Smithfield, N. C., and Mrs. A. Y. Baldwin, of Wilmington, N. C., sisters of the slain woman.

Standing in readiness to aid the Commonwealth, if his services are required, is I. A. Snipes, divorced husband of Mrs. Snipes, now living in Ashboro, N. C., according to announcement by J. J. Hatch, of Goldsboro, N. C., who is asisting in the prosecution.

Final plans for the legal fight were ilscussed today by both sides. Commonwealth's Attorney Dave E. Sattermonwealth's Attorney Dave E. Satterfield, jr., was in consultation with associate counsel, Mr. Hatch, and Harold
D. Cooley, of Nashville, N. C., and policemen who gathered evidence.
L. O. Wendenburg, Simeon D. Atkinson, T. Gray Haddon and O. N. Stumpf, counsel for Falson, who was manager of the Hermitage Country Club at the time Mrs. Snipes was shot, say they are confident the trial will result in the acquittal of their client.

Economies of Operation

OR fifty years Swift & Company has been handling perishable time an efficient money-saving system of marketing has been developed.

Science has been utilized to find new uses for many products that once were waste and better uses for old products. Multiplied uses have increased volume. Increased volume has resulted in decreased manufacturing and marketing expense. Experience, science and skill have reduced waste to a minimum.

Swift's marketing system means only one profit—and that is low. For the entire operation of converting live animals into Premium Ham and Bacon, Brookfield Sausage and other finished meat products and distributing them to the retailer, Swift & Company receives a profit from all sources averaging only a fraction of a cent per pound.

The National Distribution Conference in 1925 found the wholesale expenses of the packers' branch houses to be the lowest of the seventeen trades studied.

These economies of operation make possible full market value for live stock and lowest possible prices for meat. Swift & Company serves both producer and consumer efficiently and well.

DEBATE ON PRAYERBOOK IS BEGUN BEFORE PEERS

Archbishop of Canterbury in Plea for Adoption of Revised Form.

NO DOCTRINAL CHANGES

London, Dec. 12 (A.P.).—A full assembly, such as is seen in the upper house usually only on great occasions, gathered in the House of Lords today at the opening of the three days' debate, which will decide whether the revised Prayerbook will be approved by Parliament. Not only the peers' benches, but all the galleries, accommodating the peeresses, the members of the commons and prominent strangers, were filled to overflowing, and the bars at eithter end of the house were lined with members of the government and the House of Commons, including Premier Baidwin.

The Archbishop of Canterbury moved a resolution inviting the lords to declare that the measure embodying the revised Prayerbook be presented to the king for a royal assent. Division on this question is expected Wednesday evening. If carried, a similar motion will be submitted in the commons Thursday, since the measure can not be presented for royal assent, unless adopted by both houses.

Canterbury's great plea was that the house should take "the largest view, look at the wood, rather than the tree, and consider what might be the consequences in the country of the rejection of a united wish by a united church."

He asserted that the official voice of

He asserted that the official voice of the church had spoken with an over-whelming majority in favor of the revised prayerbook, which was not the bishop's book, but the book of the church for both clergy and laity. Its virtue was its elasticity and comprehensiveness, and he declared that nothing in it made any change in the doctrinal position of the Church of England. To reject the measure would be to invite disaster and chaos and to leave to their successors the impossible task of trying to administer in the present condition of affairs.

The revision of the book of commo The revision of the book of common prayer, made by a special committee some months ago, has passed through all the necessary stages except approval by the government, this being necessary because the Church of England is the official state church. The revised prayerbook will not replace the present one but may be used as an alternative. Among its provisions is dropping of the word "obey" from the marriage service. Other provisions deal with the Sacrament of Communion. Its critics within the church have opposed it on the ground that it tend toward Catholocism.

No action was taker, against Paul Swift, 16-year-old son of Swift, who is said to have aided in disposing of the body. Disposition of his case was left to District Attorney W D. Goff.

Fords Denied Access To Papers in Suit

Pontiac, Mich., Dec. 12 (A.P.)-Counsel for Henry and Edsel Ford were denied access today to the correspondence which passed between Henry M and Wilfred C. Leland and other stockholders of the former Lincoln Motor Co., by judge Frank L. Covert in the Leland's suit on behalf of the stockholders to compel reimbersement of approximately $6,000,000. The plaintiffs charge that the Fords, agreed to reimburse stockholders when they bought the company at a receivers sale for $8,000,000.

The court, however, granted the re quest of Ford attorneys for permission to examine books of the company form-erly believed to have been in the pos-session of the late William T. Nash, secretary of the former concern.

The governor explained that although martial law has not been formally declared, "the act of calling out the National Guard clothes the military arm with authority, the same as if formal martial law had been declared."

THE WIDOW'S NAME.

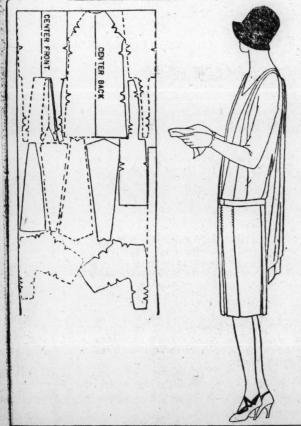

I AM a young widow and am told that, legally, I am no longer Mrs. John Jones, but am now Mrs. Ella Jones. Will you please tell me how my calling cards and engraved Christmas cards should be signed? Should they read Mrs. John Jones, Mrs Ella Jones, or just Ella Jones? I thought it would make a difference if you knew that my husband has passed away and I am not a divorcee.

No widow puts aside her husbands name because she has had the misfortune to lose him. Legally, socially and generally, you are Mrs. John Jones on your cards, on the envelopes addressed to you, and in the way you are spoken of and to. Your signature is always "Ella Jones," however, because the title Mr. Mrs., or Miss is never properly used before a signed name If you are sending out engraved Christmas cards in a formal way, and wish to speak of yourself formally in the third person, you may say "Mrs.

Single From every christmas." But this seems to me very syiff. I should a thousand times rather receive a card bought without all that forethought, and read a message written in a friend's own hand, saying. "That carries something intimate and warm-hearted. If you were a divorced woman instead to avidow you would still (according to social usage) not be Mrs. Ella Jones You would use your maiden surname with your husbaud's last name. If you divorced John Jones, become Mrs pean and most divorced women prefer it Quite ften lately I have had this question about the widow's name to answer. Oddly enough none of the widows who write seem to be using black-edged paper and cards are part of mourning etiquette.

Then I can use that sissy man secretary of his to do the records at your husband's desk—he used to be Sticko's stenggrapher once. Eh? What say?"

He waited hopefully. "I'll pay you $30 a week," he added. "Thirty-five! You'll save my life! What say, now? Come on—please do!"

Sometimes when you get started on a spending splurge it requires some good hard blows with the adze of common sense before you can hammer your financial program back into shape.

But you'll find that a well-formed and faithfully followed plan of monthly expenditure that calls for regular saving and investment works out best . . . especially if your investments are such sound securities as the 6% First Mortgage Notes offered through Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company.

5% Gold Debentures due 1947

Dated June 1, 1927 Due June 1, 1947 Interest payable June 1 and December 1 at the office of Harris, Forbes & Company in New York City or, at the option of the holder, in Chicago, Illinois, or in Boston, Mass., without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not in excess of 2%. Pennsylvania and Connecticut Four Mills taxes refundable. Callable at 103 through June 1, 1930; thereafter through June 1, 1945, at decreasing premiums; and thereafter at 100; accrued interest to be added in each case. Coupon Debentures in denomination of $1,000 registerable as to principal and fully registered Debentures in denominations of $1,000. Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee.

Mr. William R. Bull, President of the Corporation, summarizes in part his letter to us as follows: Company: International Securities Corporation of America is the successor of International Securities Trust of America (organized in 1921), the pioneer general investment trust in this country. The business of the Corporation is confined to the investment and reinvestment of its resources in seaties, domestic and foreign. Its assets now include over 500 different ment, railroad, public utility, industrial and miscellaneous securities representing investments in over Assets: Cash and investments of the Corporation, as shown by the balance sheet in the above mentioned letter, will upon completion of this financing exceed $54,000,000, an amount over 200% of its total funded debt, which will then consist of $25,000,000 5% Debentures and $1,432,700 Secured Gold Bonds. The Debentures are senior to $20,054,200 par value of Cumulative Preferred Stock (three series) and to 326,859 shares of Class A and 600,000 shares of Class B Common Stocks.

During the fiscal year ended November 30, 1927, the earnings of the Corporation and the predecessor Trust were as follows: Gross Earnings from Interest, Dividends and Realized Profits on Sale of Investments $4,097,444

Expenses and Foreign Government Taxes 386,038

Net Earnings as Above Over 2.78 Times the Above Interest Charges

Balance...... $2,378,484

During the period covered by the above earnings statement, the assets of the Corporation (and the predecessor Trust) invested and available for investment averaged less than $35,000,000, as compared with over $54,000,000 upon completion of the present financing. The earning power of the Corporation is directly dependent on the amount of assets invested and available for investment.

Indenture: The Corporation may not issue any additional funded debt except Debentures (of this or other series) under the terms of the Indenture and no additional Debentures may be issued unless upon the issue and sale thereof, the Corporation's current resources (as defined in the Indenture) would amount to at least 200% of its entire funded debt then to be outstanding. Certain of the provisions of the Indenture or of any supplemental indenture may be modified upon the affirmative vote of holders of at least 85% in principal amount of the outstanding Deb ntures.

We Recommend These Debentures for Investment

Price 953/4 and Interest, to Yield About 5.35%

Debentures are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is anticipated that Debentures in temporary or definitive form will be ready for delivery on or about January 10, 1928.

FOREIGN LOANS EASE UP

New York, Dec. 12 (A.P.) .- The recent | Sale, Issue. upward movement of bonds appeared to sive lost its force today. Prices were steady, mostly because of continued easy money conditions, but trading howed signs of tapering off. The day's ow, issues were nominal in volume, offering comparatively little competition to the listed market.

Several of the railroad liens which have been moving steadily forward were a shade lower. It was not believed, however, that the small recessions resulted especially from the St. Louis & O'Fallon valuation decision, since there was a feeling that this case would be taken to the Supreme Court and that before it is disposed of finally, favorable alterations in the transportation act might be brought about. Florida East Coast 5s and Southern Railway is inclined to heaviness, but firmness continued to rule the Erie group, genital itea 4s reaching a new peak, while the 5s touched their previous high. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s were in fair demand, presumably on revival of discussion looking to municipal recapture of the subway and elevated lines. Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s and Brooklyn-Queens 5s advanced a point of so. Otherwise there was little of interest in either the public utility or industrial groups.

Tederal government obligations were reginerally lower. Third Liberty 4½s planged hands in large numbers withfolit change from Saturday's close, and hiberty 3½s, again sold at their year's fighress. shade lower. It was not believed.

City change from Saturday's close, and fiberty 3/2s again sold at their year's fighes?

Easing tendencies were noted in many divisions of the foreign group, some of the German issues were lower and there was some selling of Mexican bonds.

BOSTON, Dec. 12 (A.P.).—Neither William T. Tilden 2d, ranking American player, nor Francis T. Hunter, the partner with whom he won Hunter, the partner with whom he won the 1927 National doubles tennis title, will be available to America for the 1928 challenge round Davis Cup play in the American zone. Tilden told the Associated Press tonight that he and Hunter planned to sail for France about the first of May and would not return to this country until the middle of August. The committee met in New York last Saturday and was reported to have adopted unanimously the recommendation of the Davis Cup committee to challenge in the American zone. Tilden, declaring he was backed by other players had urged the committee to challenge in the European zone.

"I am quite positive that the so-called 'unanimous vote' was no such thing." Tilden said, "but that's only a detail, and the decision will not interfere with the plans which Hunter and I have made to bid once again for the French and

"We shall not return until the middle of August, and for that reason we naturally will not be available for selection for Davis cup play, in the American zone at least."

Tilden asserted that he and his partner had decided against American zone play because "neither Hunter nor myself believe that it would be possible in the event that we won here to go abroad and get into condition for winning play in Europe by as late a date as the American Lawn Tennis Association plans to send the team over.

Having subsisted in the league on such slim rations for so long that it had become irritable, the Washington professional basketball team stepped out last night and in a dramatic finish in the last 50 seconds of play, Saunders and Conaty dropped field goals to overcome Detroit's 27-26 lead and win, 30 to 27.

Opening with a relentless attack at the start of the game, the Palace Five took the lead in the first two minutes of play, when Kennedy sank a basket from the free-throw line and Washington got away to a flying start which found them ont in front at the half, 23 to 12.

N EW YORK, Dec. 12.—Peter Aloysius Reilly, manager of Jack Delaney, the picturesque French Canadian who stepped down from the world's light heavyweight throne to have a few romps with the heavyweights, has gotten to the point where he believes his man is being made the pawn in a game of "freeze out" and ne wants to know why.

Reilly has heard the common gossip that Jack Sharkey is not going to mingle with Tom Heeney in Tex Rickard's Garden on January 13. He has heard rumblings to the effect that Rickard intends to keep Sharkey in reserve until such time as the field of heavyweight eliminators has fought itself out and then produce him as the next opponent for James Joseph Tunney.

What's more, Reilly believes Rickard is trying to pluck up enough courage to ask him to permit Delaney to take Sharkey's place against Heeney. Rellly avers such a request will be granted pro-vided the promoter solemnly de-clares that Sharkey is officially and definitely out of the so-called elim-ination tourney.

he would ask for a meeting with Heeney.
Relily's sole object in seeking a fight with Shrakey is that he believes it the shortest route to a wrangle with Tunney. Should he take on Heeney and Risko and lick both, Delaney would have to fight Sharkey eventually, anyhow, his manager believes.
Relily has had several chats with Rickard on the matter of getting Delaney a few bouts with the big boys and the only definite promise Tex has made is that he will use Jack against somebody in the Garden on January 20. What Reilly will do after arrangements are closed for this particular fight de-

No Deals Are Made at Baseball Meetings, He Says, But Conventions Are Mere Tests of Strength of Hotel Pillars.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New YORK, Dec. 12.—The major league baseball firms began their annual midwinter business meetings with a sort of practice meeting today. In the practice meeting a joint committee, called the steering committee, undertook to decide what the boys will be allowed to discuss at the other meetings later in the week. The joint committee is called the steering committee because the leaders of the industry, now that the old, coarse days of baseball are past, do not like the word joint.

While the meetings are going on, and they will last until Thursday night, a lot of managers of ball clubs will be leaning against the pillars in the lobbles of the Waldorf, the Belmont, the Commodore and the Roosevelt, two to a pillar, talking about bird dogs or children or the long count in the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Every one will think they are trying to trade their worst ball players for some good ones, but I don't think there is anything to that because I have been around lots of these meetings and I have noticed that the proprietors usually make the trades by long-distance phone before or after the meetings.

The only time Mr. Heydler takes a stand is when he officially decides, three months after the world series, which team won the National League pennant. Then he makes a bold announcement that the Giants or Pirates, or whoever it was, won the championship of the league.

JEWISH FIVE Walker Brothers Defi PREP TEAMS SEE ACTION TODAY

Emerson vs. Business, Woodward vs. Tech

> Is Schedule. By GARRETT WATERS.

SEVERAL changes have been made in the schedules of local Prep School basketball teams with the result that only two games are to be played today, one tomorrow and two Friday.

St. Alban's did not play yesterday due to a confusion in schedules and will not see action until after the christmas holidays. Emerson will swing into action in one of the games today meeting the Business High Quintet in a return game at the latter's gymnasium. In a previous encounter, Business toppled the Prep combination by a close score. Woodward School will figure in the other game today, mixing with Tech High on the Woodward floor.

Of the Friday games, so fat known at this writing, Emerson will engage Western in the George-towners' gymnasium, while Tech will be entertained by St. John's in the Vermont avenue cage.

The Thursday game Emerson had scheduled with the Old Dominion Boat Club has been postponed until December 21. Georgetown Prep also canceled its game with Business, listed for tomorrow.

canceled its game with Business, listed for tomorrow.

Reports from Devitt Prep indicats that that school is beginning to show life in its preparation work with sixteen men out for practice. Although late in starting, Coach Kopf is confident that when the actual schedule begins his team will be ready for all opposition. Practice tilts and scrimmages are going on now, but the opening of the season will not be officially pried until January 16 when Emerson will be met in the American University Gymnasium.

Gonzaga, another of the Prep School squads to start late, seems to be a little more advanced than Devitt in the fact that a game with the Bliss Electrical School Quintet is pending for Saturday.

If Coach Simondinger does not by this time, action for the first Thursday, when Coach Guyon's Reviewing the games played thus far, the St. John's and Emerson teams have appeared especially to advantage. "Cube" Sullivan's Cadet Five, although defeated in its first starts, gave every windication of possessing a strong team, which augurs well for a promising showing when the interprep battles get under way.

The St. Alban's Team is in need of much drilling before it can expect to do anything in the sport this year. Although smothered by Tech High last week, 81 to 7, the Wisconsin Avenue Team expects to make amends for the defeat by putting up an entirely different brand of basketball in the future.

Probably that explains the can-celling of the two games scheduled for yesterday and today. Drills are, the order from now m, and it is the hope of Coach Henderson that by, the time the Shenandoah Academy

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Prices on the curb market today followed an uneven course. While several of last week's issues were subjected to profit taking, pools ferreted out some new specialties and bid thim up briskly.

Prominent among the shares under pressure were Bancitaly. Borden Co. Celanese and some of the publishing issues, the first named failing back more than 7 points simultaneous with indications that the stock would be withdrawn from the list. Glen Alden Coal continued to sag in reflection of the continued warm weather and Lehigh Valley Coal sales fell to a new low for the year before railying for a net gain of about? points.

Some of the motors, including Durant and Reo, were in demand, bit Ford of Canada had a net loss of 17 points after starting upward. Tubize made up nearly 30 points of last week's steady decline, but most of the other high-priced stocks were inactive.

Petroleum stocks falled to establish a definite trend, gains of a point or so in Illinois Pipe Line, Vacuum and Gulf Oil being offset by similar losses in Prairie Oil, Prairie Pipe Line and International Petroleum. Utilities likewise followed a mixed trend. Associated Gas & Electric was bid up about 2 points, but National Public Service and Midwest were under pressure.

Among the specialities which were advanced to new high territory were Evans Auto Loading "A" and "B" General Bronze, Menege Co., National Baking preferred. Miles-Bement-Pond, United Biscuit "B" and new common, and United States Freight.

VAVAL AERONAUTICS RIGHT UP TO TIMES. MOFFETT REPORTS

Investigation Beneficial, Admiral Asserts.

UNDIVIDED ATTENTION

Have on Hand 718 Planes, 282 Short of 1,000 Wanted.

Announcing a "striking advance" in naval aeronautics during the past fiscal year, and that the Navy has kept pace in general with world air development, Rear Admiral W. E. Moffett, chief, Bureau of Aeronautics, remarks, in his annual report that not the least important of the factors contributing to it was the freedom from repeated agitation and investigation.

A test of actions during the year resulting from recommendations of the President's Aircraft Board, culminating from congressional investigation, showed in every way results have been beneficial. "If we can continue under the same methods of administration as have obtained in the last year," states Moffett, "the future is indeed bright."

Progress Made in Reserves.

Dealing with personnel for the five-year program, he shows that where the training of midshipmen in rudiments of aviation has proved successful, progress in the training of reserves has not been as rapid as is believed necessary, the necessity for training large numbers of reserve aviators being apparent. The five-year program for reserve units also should go through and increased funds are necessary. It is also essential that reasonable increases in civilian personnel for the five-year program be authorized.

There is still an acute need of additional airplane tenders, according to tional airplane tenders, according to Moffett, who suggests further that prog-ress in aviation abroad be studied and ress in aviation abroad be studied and reported on by one or more qualified officers, and he recommends strongly the necessity for completing the aircraft carrier tonnage allowed under the Washington Limitation Armaments Conference. Catapults for destroyers and auxiliaries also are recommended. In accord with the five-year development program, the bureau is proceeding with purchase of planes.

"On July 1, 1926, there were on hand of modern serviceable types 351 planes; during the fiscal year there was added a net gain of 117 planes, bringing the total on July 1, 1927, to 468 planes. This is 552 short of the 1,000. During the fiscal year 1928, ending June 30,

This is 532 short of the 1,000. During the fiscal year 1928, ending June 30, 1928, there will be delivered to the Navy of a total of 436 planes. Part of these represent undelivered contracts from the fiscal year 1927. This gives, as an estimate, and allowing for wastage, a total on hand as of July 1, 1928, of 718 planes, or 282 short of the total of 1,000. Thus, up to the present time, Congress has made possible a large step toward realization of the program, and with made possible a manification of the progration

Louis Brody Finds Mrs. Minnie Columbus Unconscious When He Gets Her Ashore.

HAD LEAPED INTO RIVER

Despondent because of the pros of a cheerless Christmas, after a fruitless search for employment, Mrs. Minnie Columbus, 59 years old, leaped from the sea wall in Potomac Park, opposite the War College yesterday morning and was floating unconscious into the river line cast by Louis Brody, of 1318 Thirteenth street northwest.

Thirteenth street northwest.

When the fishhook caught in her clothing, Brody drew the woman's unconscious form shoreward, where several waiting men lifted her from the water and placed her in a passing taxicab which took her to Emergency Hospital where several hours treatment restoged Mrs. Columbus to consciousness.

Sergt. Henry T. Miskell, of the park police who assisted in the rescue, said that the woman told him that her act was caused by a complete nervous breakdown caused by worry over her plight. At 837 Shepherd street northwest, where Mrs. Columbus roomed, occupants of the house know nothing of her relatives. Mrs. Columbus told Miskell that she has a brother, employed in the Postoffice Department here, but efforts to locate him proved unavailing. Mrs. Columbus will be taken to Gallinger Hospital to recuperate.

CHAIN BRIDGE WORK DELAYED UNTIL SPRING

Records of Floods Between March and May Holds Up Construction.

Chain Bridge will be closed to traffic for at least another six months. This was indicated at the District Building vesterday when it became known that even if Congress at once appropriates the $40,000 asked for replacement of the faulty south abutment, the work will not be begun until spring.

"We would probably spend much more money doing the job if we began it in the winter than if we await favorable opportunity," said Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, assistant to the Engineer Commissioner. "Our request to Congress is for $40,000 and permission to do the work ourselves by day labor and "Potomac river records indicate that we probably can avoid floods between March 15 and May 1. Between those dates water has receded from the thaw floods and has not yet risen with spring rain floods. We will be likely to begin the work within that period. If we do not we will have to wait until June.

"It is our purpose not only to replace the abutment on the Virginia side, but to redeck the entire bridge and lay traffic treads on the new wooden floor. Traffic treads are corrugated steel plates. ## NEW STREET ROUTE SUSTAINED BY COURT Justice Hitz Halts Effort to Dismiss Condemnation Suits by District.

Suits by District.

Justice William Hitz, in the United States District Court, yesterday overruled motions to dismiss condemnation proceedings instituted by the District Commissioners to provide for the cutting of a new street through two blocks, from in front of the American League Baseball Park on Georgia avenue through to Ninth street.

The motions to dismiss had been made by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co., on the ground that the law authorizing the condemnation proceedings was unfair and discriminatory.

The companies protested that they should not have to pay for the convenience afforded the automobile travelling public in the shape of a quick "get-away" from the ball park. Both companies also asserted that he new street would not benefit them but would result in material damage to them and that under the act under which the condemnation proceedings were begun carried no appropriation for damages.
